

Marcy R. Freeburg

Candidate for Colorado House of Representatives - District 62

Marcy, born and raised in Farmington Hills, Michigan, discovered Southern Colorado almost fifteen years ago, while traveling on her way to Arizona for training as a Second Lieutenant in the US Army. Marcy always remembered the area and decided to make Colorado her home.

As a graduate of Cumberland College in Williamsburg, Kentucky, Marcy has always been interested in being a public servant and advocate for cooperation at all levels of government.

After a career ending parachute accident, Marcy left the military and began working in the IT industry. Currently owner of J&M Solutions, a computer firm, Marcy is a member of the Greenhorn Valley Baptist church, President of the Rye Elementary Parent Teachers Organization, and a strong voice in the fight for quality education.

Living on the Lazy Dog Ranch just outside Colorado City, Marcy and her husband are raising their three sons, Casey, Caleb, and Kyle, who attend school at Rye Elementary. She is proud of her sons' successes, and credits the Rye school system with providing her children an education that is preparing them for their future.

Marcy personifies both leadership and teamwork; as a leader in the community she believes that as a team, the Colorado House of Representatives, citizens, and taxpayers can work together to give Southern Colorado a brighter future.
